- Commercial Management

ICTPro delivers an end-to-end integrated approach to the entire life cycle of a project from the commencement by way of business requirements definition, feasibility and business case preparation, through tender development, evaluation and contract negotiation to the hand over to operations of a successfully implemented project.

ICTPro can deliver the full end to end process or any of the individual components and can also provide suitably skilled staff at key moments such as requirements definition, contract negotiation, project initiation and management.

ICTPro also has significant experience in developing and delivering tender responses.

The services provided allow customers to focus on their specific lines of business whilst having access to additional resources on an "as required basis" to implement change, without the burden of maintaining a specialist workforce.
